BCLC Pupils Join the Buwan ng Wika Celebration of the College of Education... A Community Outreach Program

Bankstreet Child Learning Center (BCLC) is just a small program organized by the school's Community Outreach Program. This is a free institution and the ones assigned to teach are those students who are volunteer coming from the College of Education. Only six volunteers are allowed inside every session to avoid overcrowding the area where the students attention may be interrupted.

Bankstreet Child Learning Center's first semester has been a challenge to all volunteer teachers. This is because the first semester is the stage where the students need to know each other, to feel comfortable to everyone, and to learn the basic and to socialize.

BCLC Pupils Join the Buwan ng Wika Celebration of the College of Education... A Community Outreach Program

Last August 19, 2015, the Bankstreet Child Learning Center pupils participated in the celebration of Buwan ng Wika of the College of Education. “Filipino: Wika ng Pambansang Kaunlaran” was the theme of the said event. The pupils’ attendance consists of the morning and afternoon session. The piece they presented was entitled Ako’y Munting Tinig by Lea Salonga. It was a long preparation to be called. Since they were consisted of both morning and afternoon sessions we decided to divide them and have our practice during their class hours facilitated of course, by the volunteer teachers. Before the program started the pupils together with their parents prepared for their costume to use for the performance. Their costumes were Filipino inspired which were very appropriate in the theme of the event. The preparation lasted for about an hour including the waiting for the other participants.

In the program proper, we saw that the pupils were very excited to perform in the stage. The pupils performed what they practiced inside the BCLC classroom. They seemed a little bit nervous, but with the proper guidance of the teachers and their parents, it ended up successfully. After their performance, we can say that they really enjoyed their first performance being a pupil of the Bankstreet Child Learning Center (BCLC).
